Lay Summary in Theses

A lay summary is intended to facilitate knowledge exchange, public engagement and outreach. It should be written in simple, non-technical terms that are easily understandable by a lay audience, who may be non-professional, non-scientific and outside the research area.

Abstracts, particularly in science, engineering, medicine and veterinary medicine, may be highly technical or contain scientific language that is not easily understandable to readers outside the research area. Therefore, the lay summary is supplementary to the abstract.

The lay summary should be incorporated at the beginning of each copy of the thesis submitted for assessment, and must be included in the final version of the submitted thesis. Students should use the University lay summary form. The lay summary is not included in the word-count. Lay summaries should conform to the requirements of the Standards for the Format of a Thesis.

Students may seek advice on the lay summary at any point from their Principal Supervisor.

Support and advice on training is available from the Institute for Academic Development.
