

THE UNIVERSITY of EDINBURGH

Special Leave Policy

1. Policy Statement

The University is committed to helping its staff to achieve a good work-life balance. We understand there may be occasions when you need time off for reasons that do not fall within the scope of other leave policies. This policy explains the types of leave available to deal with these different situations.

2. Scope

This policy applies to all employees of the University.

3. Principles

This policy is underpinned by the following principles:

- 3.1 Leave requests will be considered fairly, promptly and with sensitivity
- 3.2 Every effort will be made to agree leave requests, subject to reasonable notice and operational need.

4. Entitlement

The amount of time off you can take and whether leave is paid or unpaid will depend on the type of leave requested (see Appendix I).

Note: As there are limits to the amount of unpaid leave for sponsored workers, all requests for unpaid leave from a sponsored worker should be referred to HR Operations in the first instance.

5. Continuity of Employment and Pay

Continuity of employment is maintained during your leave which means there is no break in service during your absence from work. During paid leave, you will continue to receive all non-cash benefits, such as accrual of annual leave.

During periods of unpaid leave of less than four continuous weeks, you will continue to receive all non-cash benefits. For periods of unpaid leave beyond four weeks, you will no longer receive non-cash benefits.

6. Pension Contributions

If you take unpaid leave, you may not earn enough in a pay period to make your regular pension contribution. The Pensions team will contact you directly if there are any pension implications that you should be aware of and will advise you of your options regarding your pension contributions.

7. Links to Other Relevant Policies and Guidance

You may find it useful to refer to other relevant University policies which you can find on the HR web pages:

Special Leave Procedure

1. Requesting Special Leave

You must discuss your need for leave with your manager giving as much notice as possible. You can request most types of special leave through People and Money (see Appendix 1). Your request will go to your manager for approval. Where additional evidence is required to support your application (e.g. jury duty notification), you must upload this at the same time. If you wish to request leave to represent your country, campaign for election to parliament or for an extended period of unpaid leave, you must use the Special Leave form and send this to your manager for approval.

If you can't complete the form or request through People and Money in advance of the absence, contact your manager (or, in their absence, an appropriate deputy) as soon as possible to inform them of your absence, the reason and likely duration. Your manager can input your leave into People and Money or you can complete the form once you return to work.

If you take leave without prior authorisation from your manager, it may be considered an unauthorised absence, which may lead to disciplinary action. Managers should contact HR if a member of their team is absent from work without authorisation.

2. Considering Your Leave Request

Before approving the request your manager must consider:

- the number of days you have requested
- the reason for the request
- any previous requests you've made for special leave, and
- the needs and priorities of your business area.

If your manager can approve your request, they will inform you as soon as possible.

If your manager can't approve your request, they will explain the reasons why and suggest possible alternative options such as the use of Annual Leave, Emergency Time Off for Dependents or Flexible Working. All applications and decisions will be recorded.

3. Cancelling Leave

You can cancel your period of leave by contacting your manager. Alternatively, if you have requested your leave through People and Money you can cancel the leave. If you have requested your leave through the Special Leave form, your manager will make sure that your absence record is updated and, where unpaid leave was requested, contact Payroll to ensure that no pay is deducted. There may be occasions when you can't cancel your leave, e.g. where a formal contract to provide cover for your absence has been put in place.

There may be occasions where, for business reasons, your manager asks you to cancel a period of approved special leave. In such cases, your manager will discuss all options with you before making a decision.
