Lectureship - Clinical Psychology

Department of Psychology

Grade: UOE8/UOE9
Positions available: 1

Closing date: 23.59hrs (BST) 25th September 2023
Interview Date: November 2023
Requisition Number: 8051
The School of Philosophy, Psychology and Language Sciences is seeking to appoint a part time, fixed term, Lecturer/Senior Lecturer in Clinical Psychology to its Department of Psychology.

The successful candidate will contribute distinguished teaching and leadership in the field of Clinical Psychology, working closely with colleagues across Psychology and the School to contribute to the continuing development of the department as a centre of international excellence.

We ask you to include a current CV and cover letter with names of three referees who may be contacted at a later date (please note if you do not wish for anyone to be contacted until after an offer has been made). We invite candidates to use their cover letter to highlight professional and personal experiences that maybe relevant to role. PPLS interview panels will take submitted documents into account when assessing applications in line with listed criteria, including acknowledging areas of potential impact such as caring responsibilities, family leave and health related matters.

Applications can be made via our University vacancy pages. Supporting information relating to how to use the recruitment portal can be found at the back of this pack.

The department of Psychology particularly welcomes applications from candidates belonging to groups that have been traditionally underrepresented in the subject, including, but not limited to, non-males and ethnic minorities.

For more information on our family-friendly policies please visit our HR web pages.
Job Purpose

The successful candidate will contribute specialist clinically-related teaching, public impact, and leadership in the field of Psychology (broadly: clinical psychology, psychotherapy), working closely with colleagues across Psychology and the School to contribute to the continuing development of the department as a centre of international excellence.

The contribution to course organisation and teaching will be predominantly to our Honours-level teaching, developing and organising a large, lecture-based clinical psychology-related course. The successful applicant may also offer thesis supervision to the undergraduate and postgraduate students. We invite applications from qualified clinical psychologists who have an interest in teaching in higher education.

The postholder will need to demonstrate experience of teaching and/or training in psychological principles or psychological therapies and supervising student-delivered research projects.

Main Responsibilities

1. Teaching design & delivery (Approx. 70% of time).
   - Take responsibility to design and deliver a course on clinical psychology and psychotherapy, and contribute more generally to the development of teaching and enhancement of high-quality teaching in the subject area.
   - Contribute to the teaching objectives of Psychology and the School by applying knowledge derived from research to teaching, supervising, and assessing at all levels, including undergraduate courses and Masters programmes.
   - Teaching duties may include the delivery of lectures and small group tutorials and the supervision of undergraduate and postgraduate projects and dissertations. This includes provision of high-quality assessment feedback in a timely fashion.
   - Provide advice and support to students.

2. Leadership and administration (Approx. 20% of time).
   - Contribute to subject area planning
   - Undertake further leadership and administrative duties, as specified by the Head of School or Head of Subject Area

3. Development (Approx. 10% of time).
   - The post holder will engage in appropriate activities that will develop his/her professional career. These may include, but are not limited to, academic research and professional skills training activities.
Plan and Organise

- Assume responsibility for own time management.
- Prepare, organise, deliver, and assess relevant undergraduate and postgraduate courses and meet all relevant deadlines. This includes providing training and guidance, where appropriate, for tutors on these courses.
- Organise activities associated with any administrative role carried out on behalf of the Subject Area or School.

Problem Solving

- Assisting students to achieve their potential.
- Identify students experiencing difficulties in their learning and assisting them to find solutions.
- Respond to student feedback on teaching and assessment through changes in course design and course content as appropriate.
- Develop appropriate responses to problems or issues that arise in respect of administrative roles.

Decision Making

- Decide on priorities within agreed timescales in academic year, in consultation with key School contacts such as Head of Subject Area or Head of School as appropriate.
- Decide on appropriate teaching material for courses at various levels and how best to present this material to students and how it is best assessed.
- Decide on the best way to deal with student queries, including deciding on when to approach other key School contacts for further support.

Key Contacts and Relationships

- UG and PG students; other teaching colleagues within the subject area; Head of Subject Area; support staff across the School; other College/University representatives; Head of School; external contacts such as organisers of conferences, representatives of learned societies or other professional organisations.
The successful applicant should have:-

Essential

- BPS recognised degree in Psychology (International applicants will need to demonstrate that they have this at the time of application, for example via British Psychological Society Membership).

- A UK recognised doctoral level professional qualification in Clinical, Psychology (e.g., professional practice doctorate) and registration with HCPC as practitioner clinical psychologist.

- Evidence of experience in teaching and/or training, indicative of commitment to and potential for excellence in undergraduate and postgraduate teaching.

- The ability to communicate highly theoretical material to a diverse audience. A deep commitment to delivering engaging and effective teaching and supervision to students at all levels and from diverse backgrounds, using appropriate teaching methods.

- Excellent communication and interpersonal skills.

- The ability to engage effectively with the wider academic and professional community.

- The ability to work in a team to deliver teaching and learning objectives.

- The ability to lead, motivate, and support others, with a particular focus on students and teaching teams.

- Commitment to the development of diverse and inclusive teaching materials.

Desirable

- Research and teaching expertise in clinical psychology.

- A track record of publications in journals of international standing.

- Prior experience in team-working in delivery of teaching and learning objectives.

- Ability to demonstrate a capacity to teach within the subject area across both UG and PG levels.

- Prior experience of curriculum design and development.

- Prior experience of digital teaching.

- An interest in knowledge exchange and applications.

- Evidence of potential for academic leadership and management.
The successful applicant should have:-

Essential

- A proven track record in teaching leadership, in curriculum development, indicative of excellence in undergraduate and postgraduate teaching, and in the development of new courses/programmes at postgraduate and undergraduate levels.

- Evidence of the ability to supervise throughout the curricula from undergraduate dissertations to PhD dissertations inclusive.

- Evidence of commitment to pursuing research funding from external sources.

Desirable

- Experience of knowledge exchange and/or engagement with public bodies and the wider public.

- Experience of academic leadership and management.

- Evidence of research and publication activities in clinical psychology meeting standards of world-leading excellence.
Established in 1906, Psychology at Edinburgh was one of the first departments of psychology in the UK. We currently have around 45 academic staff, 30 research staff, and 70 PhD students. The department enjoys a world-wide reputation for its research, covering a range of topics from the psychology of language to individual differences. Edinburgh Psychology, together with neuroscience, psychiatry, and clinical psychology, is a research unit whose overall quality of research is ranked 2nd in the UK and combined quality/breadth is ranked 3rd in the UK.

We are home to world-class research groups in human cognitive neuroscience, individual differences, psychology of language and developmental psychology. Psychology also houses the Alzheimer Scotland Dementia Research Centre, as well as The Koestler Parapsychology Unit which brings together a vibrant network of researchers engaged in exploring the ways in which data and digital technology are transforming our world.

We have excellent facilities for research and teaching, including a cognitive neuroscience facility with EEG/ERP, NIRS, TMS, eye and motion-tracking technologies, a developmental facility with infant eye-tracking capabilities, a psychometric test library, and general computing and experimental research facilities. Staff have access to the Welcome Trust Clinical Research Facility and the Scottish Brain Imaging Research Centre, as well as a large volunteer panel to assist the recruitment of normal adult subject samples.

Students from around the world study Psychology at Edinburgh, with approx 35% of our students coming from outside the UK from over 40 different countries. We have a well-established postgraduate programme, offering seven taught MSc programmes as well as PhD study. Undergraduate class sizes range from around 350 in first year (including a first year intake onto Psychology single and joint honours degree programmes of around 110 students), to more specialist third and fourth year classes of around 50 students. Small-group teaching is a feature throughout the curriculum, with students taught in groups of 6-15 by academic staff and postgraduate tutors. The Psychology student society, PsychSoc, runs a wide series of social and scientific events and also coordinates a PsychPALS scheme, in which first year students are mentored by older students.

Psychology’s unique role as part of the School of Philosophy, Psychology, and Language Sciences has fostered rich teaching and research collaborations in cognitive science, moral psychology, and the psychology of language. We have links across the University with world-class researchers in related disciplines such as business studies, economics, sociology, neuroscience, neuroinformatics, and genetics. We have extensive national and international collaborative links in all of these disciplines.

https://www.ed.ac.uk/ppls/psychology
The School comprises Philosophy, Psychology and Language Sciences (Linguistics and English Language). We offer a rich and diverse teaching and research environment for all our staff and students, with close links between our three main subject areas, alongside other world-class research areas within the University and beyond.

There are over 250 academic staff within the School, and the breadth of expertise ranges from analytic philosophy and the study of English language, through theoretical and applied linguistics and experimental psychology, to cognitive neurosciences and genetic influences on human behaviour.

Read about the impact our research is making on our website.

The School is recognised as world-leading, as shown in its excellent output across all areas in the 2021 Research Excellence Framework.

- Linguistics & English Language is rated 3rd in the UK by Times Higher Education for the quality and breadth of the research using the latest Research Excellence Framework (REF 2021).
- Edinburgh Psychology, together with neuroscience, psychiatry, and clinical psychology, is a research unit whose overall quality of research (Quality index) is ranked 2nd in the UK and combined quality/breadth (Power THE) is ranked 3rd in the UK.
- Edinburgh Philosophy is a vibrant international community of 35 philosophers. Our research excellence, whose quality and breadth is ranked 4th in the UK by Times Higher Education (Power THE), has transformed academic and public understanding of the human condition, the natural world, and our place within it.

The School is unique in offering outstanding opportunities for interdisciplinary teaching and in pioneering novel forms of research that reach across traditional boundaries. In 2021/22, the School welcomed nearly 2300 undergraduate and postgraduate students from around the world onto our diverse range of programmes.

The School has well established links with other areas of the University such Clinical Neuroscience, Medicine, Informatics and Edinburgh College of Art.

This large and diverse teaching portfolio is augmented by the breadth of our research portfolio, whereby we are able to secure large volumes and value of externally funded research grants. Our core income budget is circa £30m per annum.
Alongside this, we have several research centres which further drive our research and help put our research into practice, connecting academia with industry, policy and the general public, for example:

- Alzheimer Scotland Dementia Research Centre – dementia research centre in collaboration with Alzheimer Scotland.
- Angus McIntosh Centre for Historical Linguistics – research centre focused on historical linguistics and language change, centred on the history of English and Scots.
- Bilingualism Matters – a centre promoting bilingualism and language learning to the general public.
- The Centre for Language Evolution – interdisciplinary centre focused on understanding the origins and evolution of language.
- EIDYN – Philosophy research centre focusing on epistemology, mind and normativity.
- The Edinburgh Centre for Data, Culture & Society - provides our community of practice with space for experimentation, innovation and skills development, and gives tailored support to research groups and projects.

The School offers extensive professional service support for academics across a wider range of administrative operations, including:

- Dedicated undergraduate and postgraduate teaching offices.
- Research and knowledge exchange support team.
- A highly skilled and specialised IT team who provide support relating to learning technology, and extensive support and facilities for data collection and experimentation across cognitive science.
Who’s Who
in the Department of Psychology

Dr Sarah MacPherson
Head of Psychology

Dr MacPherson joined the Psychology department in 2006 following a post-doc at University College London. She is currently a Senior Lecturer and took up the role of Head of Psychology in summer 2021. Her research focuses on the understanding and assessment of frontal lobe functions, including executive functions, social cognition and memory, through the study of patients with focal frontal lobe lesions and dementia, as well as healthy adult aging. She currently contributes to both undergraduate and postgraduate teaching.

Dr Jasna Martinovic
Director of Teaching

Dr Martinovic is a senior lecturer in Psychology. She joined the department in 2020 after 11 years as lecturer and senior lecturer at the University of Aberdeen. Her research uses psychophysical and electroencephalographic methods to investigate the neural mechanisms that enable synergistic processing of luminance and chromatic information. Such processing occurs in perception, attention and cognition and is essential for how we perceive and think about our visual environment. She teaches perception and cognitive neuroscience across UC & PG programmes.

Dr Michelle Luciano
Director of Research

Dr Michelle Luciano has been a member of the department at Edinburgh since 2007, and is currently Reader in Psychology. Her research looks at the environmental and genetic factors contributing to cognition, personality, mood, well-being and brain MRI measures. Michelle has played a central role across the school in both teaching and research within the Psychology department, as well as in her wider school role as Equality & Diversity Director.

Who’s Who
in The School of PPLS

Professor Holly Branigan
Head of School

Prof Branigan joined the Psychology department at the University in 1999 after a BA in Language and Linguistic Science (York), an MSc and PhD in Cognitive Science (Edinburgh), and a British Academy Fellowship (Glasgow/Edinburgh).

She has held a Personal Chair in Psychology of Language and Cognition since 2011. Her main areas of interest are language production and dialogue in monolingual and bilingual adults. More recently, she has also begun to carry out related research with typically and atypically developing children.

Prof Branigan was made Interim Head of School in August 2017 and permanently took up the role in 2019.

Prof BetteLou Los
Deputy Head of School

Professor Los joined the University in 2013 as Forbes Chair of English Language. Her main research interests are historical linguistics, the history of English, diachronic syntax and the interaction of syntax with information structure.

She was Head of Subject Area Linguistics and English Language from 2014–2017 and became Deputy Head of School from July 2021.

Margarida Teixeria-Dias
Director of Professional Services

Director of Professional Services

Margarida Teixeira Dias joined the School of PPLS from the College of Science and Engineering in July 2021 and has worked in higher education for 7 years. As Director of Professional Services, Margarida leads the organisation, planning and management of the comprehensive range support services within the School, and works closely with senior academic managers to support School planning, strategy and financial management.
For more than four centuries, our people and their achievements have rewritten history time and again. They’ve explored space, revolutionised surgery, published era-defining books, paved the way for life-saving medical breakthroughs and introduced to the world many inventions, discoveries and ideas from penicillin to Dolly the sheep. We have believed that anything is possible, we still do.

The latest Research Excellence Framework highlighted our place at the forefront of international research. This adds to our international reputation for the quality of our teaching and our student experience excellence. The University is proud of its success with online teaching initiatives, with 2550 students currently studying its online distance learning postgraduate programmes, and a total to date of more than 2 million enrolments for Edinburgh Massive Open Online Courses (MOOCs).

As a member of staff, you will be part of one of the world’s leading universities, with 20 Schools spread over 3 Colleges that offer more than 1600 undergraduate and 600 postgraduate programmes to over 35,000 students each year. Professional services are critical to this success as well as our world-class teaching, research and student facilities. In fact, we are one of the top employers in Edinburgh, with over 13,000 people spread across a wide range of academic and supporting roles.

As a world-changing, world-leading university, we offer an exciting, positive, creative, challenging and rewarding place to work.

We give you support, nurture your talent, develop and reward success and integrate academic, professional and personal career goals, as well as give your career the benefit of a great and distinguished reputation.

Pay, Benefits and Conditions

In addition to a competitive salary, our employees benefit from a competitive reward package and a wide range of staff benefits, which include:

- generous annual leave allowance.
- defined benefits pension scheme which offers a guaranteed retirement income based on your salary. The University currently pays a monthly contribution equal to 19.5% of your salary, while you pay 8.8%.
- staff discounts on a range of services.
- on-campus nurseries.
- The University also offers a generous suite of policies around family leave. Examples of our policies can be viewed here.

Access our staff benefits page for further information and use our reward calculator to find out the total value of pay and benefits provided.
Relocation

Edinburgh is one of the most diverse Universities in the UK, with staff and students from over 160 countries. Our International Staff website has been created to assist you, and your family, with settling into life in Edinburgh.

Relocation Policies

Relocation support can be provided to both domestic and international appointees in line with the University relocation policy.

The University is also able to provide support to partners of new appointees wishing to transition career (more information can be found here).

International Relocation Support

Once you have a job offer from the University, you may need to apply for a visa to work in the UK. If you are applying for a highly skilled role or are a sponsored researcher the University may be able to sponsor you through a skilled worker (formally tier 2) visa route, or help you in applying for an exceptional talent (formally tier 1) visa.

An overview of the visa processes can be found here.

The University currently has a dedicated International Staff Advisor, who is able to assist with each stage of any visa process, both before and after arriving in the UK.

Along with PPLS HR, they will be able to assist with the following areas:

- Initial advice with relation to suitable visa routes
- Free and impartial specialist advice on UK immigration matters for prospective and current staff, visitors and their accompanying dependants
- Advice on how to complete the applications required
- Guidance on the UK immigration rules and regulations
- Support in relation to understanding of university policy with relation to visa fees and reimbursement
- Further advice and guidance when dealing with Indefinite Leave to Remain

Immigration Fees

There are two types of support currently in place, the Interest Free Loan and Visa Fee Reimbursement.

The University offers assistance for fees you incur in relation to your Skilled Worker, Exceptional Talent or UK Residency applications and associated UK legal fees. In respect of Skilled worker and Exceptional Talent this includes payments for immigration healthcare surcharge fees (NHS) and National Academic Recognition Information Centre (NARIC) fees. PPLS HR will advise on this process in full at the time of offer.
The City of Edinburgh

Edinburgh is a beautiful city that has something to offer everyone. Whether you prefer a quiet restaurant, a lively night out or something in between, you are bound to find it in Edinburgh. Regularly ranked as one of the “Best Places to Live in the UK”, Edinburgh has many strings to its bow.

Culture and Entertainment
Home to the largest arts festival in the world, The Edinburgh International Festival brings the month of August alive in the city where residents are spoilt with first class theatre, music, performance art and comedy all on their doorstep. The abundance of galleries and museums such as The Museum of Scotland, Scottish National Gallery and Scottish National Portrait Gallery to name but a few, means that there is always opportunity to soak up some culture all year round.

For those who wish to feed their bellies as well as their minds, Edinburgh boasts the highest number of Michelin starred restaurants in the Scotland, and has more restaurants per head of population than any other UK city outside of London.

The historic appeal of the Athens of the North has led it to become renowned for its monuments and attractions including the Scott Monument, National Monument on Calton Hill and of course the Edinburgh Castle itself; which dominates the city skyline, no more so than on Hogmanay with the world’s biggest street party and fireworks extravaganza to match!

Transport and Districts

Air Links - Several airlines fly to the Edinburgh from the principal European cities, and there are very frequent services from London. If booked well in advance, travel to Edinburgh by air can be cheap, particularly from London. For more information check the Edinburgh Airport website. Bus and tram connections operate 24/7 and with an average journey time of 25-30mins form the city centre.

Rail Links - Travelling to Edinburgh from other parts of the UK is generally easy by train and both Waverly and Haymarket train stations are centrally located, with support routes provided by the bus and tram networks.

Transport Around Edinburgh – Edinburgh has an excellent level of public transport provision compared to many cities in the UK. We have our own Transport and Parking Department here in the University of Edinburgh. They provide lots of advice on getting around the city plus details on staff parking facilities on campus.
Edinburgh Districts

Edinburgh is a highly sought after place to live. Its beautiful city centre covers the Georgian splendour of the New Town, with its grand terraces, crescents, gardens, and upmarket shopping boutiques and bars, and the narrow closes, winding stairways, and historic charms of the Old Town. Nearby communities such as Morningside, Bruntsfield, Stockbridge and Newington remain in easy reach of the city centre as well provide a local community feel.

Explore all of Edinburgh’s distracts on our website.

Nurseries and Schools

Based at King's Buildings, The University’s Arcadia Nursery, designed around the concept of ‘free play’ by award winning architect Malcolm Fraser, provides the perfect environment for children to blossom.

There is however, no obligation to place your child in University's nursery. There are many other childcare options in Edinburgh. The Edinburgh council website provides information about childcare across the City.

There are two main types of school in the UK, state and independent schools. State Schools make up the majority of schools and are funded by the government. There is no fee for your children to attend these schools. Independent schools require a fee for your child to study there, although there are bursaries available. The school your child can attend is usually dictated by the area in which you live. You cannot apply for a school place until you have an address in the area (this is not the case for fee paying/ independent schools). The council has ‘catchment areas’ for each school and have a duty to provide schooling for your child, but if your first choice school has no places left, they may have to recommend a school further away. As Edinburgh is our capital city, many of the schools fill up quickly. Some families consider living a commutable distance from the city in order to have a larger choice of schools. East Lothian and West Lothian Councils cover school areas a commutable distance from Edinburgh.
