Introduction

This guide covers key tasks for managers in People and Money: Learning - a one-stop-shop for staff learning at the University.

There are hundreds of learning opportunities (courses) available to you, and your team members.

Some are expected of you in your role and may be assigned to you, and others are available for you to enrol on, or for your manager to enrol you on, and for you to enrol team members on.

Courses may be instructor-led in a classroom, be delivered virtually using e.g. Teams, or be self-paced eLearning that you complete independently.

Remember that People and Money offers access to learning opportunities, but it does not replace the requirement for ongoing and meaningful conversations. Learning aims should be discussed with your team member(s) and agreed in advance of enrolment. This may occur as part of their annual review or during your ongoing one to one conversations. Further information to support you is available in the Conversations Hub.

Before you start, please familiarise yourself with the Guide to Learning, Skills and Qualifications for Line Managers

Line managers manage team learning by working with their direct reports to:

- Make the most of your new hires' on-boarding experience by recommending appropriate learning
- Support your team in improving their performance
- Have more meaningful annual reviews and one-to-one conversations
- Keep track of your teams' learning progress and identify learning requirements

My Team> Learning enables managers to:

- Search the catalogue to review learning options for their direct reports
- View team enrolments and progress on learning, and learning records of your direct report's direct reports
- Assign learning to your team, and other teams in your organisation hierarchy
- Recommend learning to your team, or outside of your line management structure
- Find more information on Learning

This guide covers these processes.

Line Managers should also review the Guide to Skills and Qualifications.
